For - Thursday 8th March

Spellings

Week 2

Words ending in -able adorable valuable advisable

believable

desirable

excitable knowledgeable likeable

changeable noticeable

English

Write a diary entry of an exciting day you've had in the snow. Maybe you tried sledding for the first time, or you had to help someone who was stuck in the snow, maybe it was that you just had the most epic snowball fight ever.
Please send any photos or videos of you sledding etc to ClassDojo!

Try to include as many features of diaries as you can:

- Give your thoughts and feelings.
- Punctuation like brackets, commas or dashes to add extra thoughts.
- Chatty language.
- Time conjunctions (firstly, meanwhile, later, consequently…)

Maths

Decimal snowy activities!
Choose from one of the snow-themed activities below:

1	2	3
Build a snowman and do some measuring with decimals. What is the height of the snowman? What is the circumference of its waist? Record your answers using decimal places. Take it further: compare measurements of the snowman - what is the difference between height and the waist, for example? 	Record times of a sled run. Use a timer and record times of different runs you / family / friends do. Who was the fastest? Take it further: compare the times of the sled runs. How much quicker was ??? than ??? 	Search the internet to study the temperatures in different parts of the world OR EVEN the amount of snowfall in different places. Record these temperatures or snowfall amounts in your book. Record it in decimals. Take it further: compare the measurements. What is the difference between the most and the least?

Send any pictures on ClassDojo.
Do take care in the snow!